

The image features a highly decorative black and white design. A thick black rectangular border frames the entire content. Inside this border, the four corners are adorned with elaborate, symmetrical scrollwork flourishes. Additionally, the top and bottom edges of the inner frame are decorated with smaller, repeating scroll motifs. In the center of the page, there is a horizontal decorative flourish consisting of a central floral-like element with symmetrical scrolls extending outwards. Below this flourish, the names "Robrecht & Christina" are written in a large, elegant, cursive script. Another horizontal decorative flourish, similar to the one above but with different scroll patterns, is positioned directly below the names.
